Health Department Is Facing Problem To Meet County's Growing Needs

Recognizing many needs in connection with expanding the service of Fayette County's health department to meet growing community problems, Dr. Gordon Savage, head of the department is now engaged in a serious study of what can be done during the coming year.

With the limited money and staff available, plans must be made to stretch the activities of the department to great lengths to do the things which Dr. Savage and his co-workers in the department feel should be carried out.

In order to get some picture of the program which the department is already following, Dr. Savage was asked to outline what is now being done there. He prepared a statement which gives the public some idea of the various needs are which must be faced regularly.

This statement sets forth the following.

"INFECTIOUS DISEASE control is a constant problem. It includes communicable disease, venereal disease and tuberculosis. Efforts of the health department are directed toward the finding of cases of communicable disease, venereal disease and tuberculosis, and getting these cases treated so that they will become non-infectious.

"The greatest emphasis is placed upon preventive measures such as immunization, quarantine, isolation and examination of contacts. Tuberculosis patients are hospitalized in a sanatorium whenever possible in order to get them out of the community and prevent infection of others.

"A maternal program is another phase of the department's work. The Health Department attempts, through the home nursing visits to get expectant mothers under medical supervision early and keep them under such supervision until after delivery. They nurse, at the time of her visit, provides consultation and literature, thereby informing and preparing the mother for the most important event in life. The building of a community

Hospital's Emergency Call Gets Quick Answer

How quickly can a blood donor be obtained in an emergency?

Miss Christine Evans, administrator of the Fayette County Memorial Hospital found that it took about twenty minutes on Friday, from the time she called the local Red Cross Chapter until the first donor arrived at the hospital.

A patient was in surgery at the hospital and in need of a transfusion of type B-positive blood. The stock of blood at the hospital did not have this type on hand. Miss Evans called Mrs. Violet Cahall, Secretary of the Red Cross, here asking for donors.

The Red Cross, as part of the blood program, keeps a file of all blood donors designated by their blood types. A check of this file produced three persons who agreed to go to the hospital immediately. They were Mrs. Ben Norris, 322 East Paint Street, William Warner, 1016 Center Street, and Mrs. Florence Cook, 709 Columbus Avenue. Warner was able to get to the hospital within a few minutes after being contacted within twenty minutes after the hospital first called.

The two others followed quickly thereafter. Two of the three donors were used for this one case. Miss Evans stated that she was very happy with the splendid cooperation the Red Cross was able to give through its blood program. This program is under the direction of Tom Mark, who in speaking of this case, said, "In this instance, three persons answered the call for blood when needed in an emergency. On January 15 the blood-mobile will be in Washington Court House and we will need more than 100 donors, not for an immediate emergency but to give blood for some emergency in Korea, or some disaster in this country, or even for someone in Washington C. H., at a time when the original donor might not be available. We ask everyone to watch for more information about the blood-mobile and make plans to give blood."

Other pieces hanging above the street represent a Trinity cross of 16th century English design, a conical tree, a cluster of holly, a poinsettia, bells and a candlestick.

On the courthouse is the familiar figure of the Madonna and child in medallion form, flanked by the Bethlehem scene, the Magi and the shepherds.

All the designs are refinements of an idea conceived a number of years ago by Wells, assistant director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

This idea embodied the use of steel rods welded together to form the outline of a familiar object. Financed through public subscriptions, four original picture-pieces were built and used. Each subsequent year has seen the number of decorative pieces increased. Additional ones are planned for the future.

The picture pieces are augmented with lighted garlands stretched at intervals across Main Street, and by four-foot pine-covered wreaths suspended from the boulevard light standards on Main Street.

Stolen Car Held Here By Sheriff

Sheriff Orland Hays is holding a Chevrolet automobile which was found abandoned near Madison Mills Friday.

So far ownership has not been determined. The car had been moved by wiring the switch instead of using a key.

The sheriff is attempting to trace the ownership through the license number.

HAMBURG, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Ten inches of snow was too much for Santa.

His scheduled ride through town Friday on a float, with gifts for the kiddies, was postponed until Monday, weather permitting.

Farmer Prices Continue Drop

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—For the third month in a row, farmers recorded a drop in prices of the things they grow. The cost of growing them was also down.

The Agriculture Department reported Friday farm product prices declined 2 per cent from mid-October to mid-November.

Vital Election in Saar on Sunday

Chamber of Commerce French-German Relations Tense

MOVING THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE headquarters here was not an easy task. While waiting for the arrival of Santa Friday afternoon and again after he had escorted himself in his home on the Court House lawn, Mrs. Rachael Urton, the Chamber secretary, and Ed Kreider, the executive-secretary, unpacked papers and straightened out files in the new offices at the corner of Market and Fayette streets. (Record-Herald Photo)

The Washington C. H. Chamber of Commerce today is in its new home, but it's still in a rather topsy-turvy state.

Ed Kreider, the executive-secretary who came here about only three months ago from Hamilton, and Mrs. Rachael Urton, who has been the secretary for the last two years, did all of the work of packing up the papers and files for the move from the second floor room at the corner of Court and Fayette streets to the first floor room in the converted residence at the corner of Market and Fayette streets.

Now they are unpacking and moving desks, chairs and filing cabinets around in the new headquarters.

The moving processes were started four days ago and the last piece was unloaded from the van about noon Friday—right when Kreider and Mrs. Urton were in the midst of the opening of the Santa Claus welcoming festivities on the Court House lawn and the formal opening of the Christmas shopping season.

THE CHAMBER had occupied the rooms over Risch's Corner Drug Store since 1947.

Kreider said the move was made because the directors felt the Chamber could better serve the community from ground floor offices which would be more accessible to visitors.

The Chamber's new home has three rooms on the lower floor of the brick house owned by W. M. Campbell. The rest of the building is used as a residence.

Just before the move was made the house was freshly painted white and the interior is to be done to suit the tastes of the Chamber directors.

Just inside the door on Market Street, is a room about 12 by 15 feet in size. It is to be used by Mrs. Urton as a sort of reception room. Behind that is another room of about the same size that is to be Kreider's office. Opening off of the executive-secretary's office is a bigger conference room where the directors can meet around the long table and visiting delegations can get together with Chamber officials to talk over problems.

Kreider said he expected to have the new headquarters shipshape next week.

The directors will hold their first meeting in the new home Dec. 8.

Arson Is Hinted In Clinic Fire

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 29.—State Fire Marshal C. A. Raper believes the Thanksgiving eve fire which claimed 17 lives at Huntington State Hospital and one of two minor blazes at the mental institution Friday night "have the earmarks of arson."

However, he said he wasn't "making any accusations" adding that the "situation will bear watching." Three more persons injured in the fire died Saturday.

LORAIN, Nov. 29.—For the first time, Petey Recznik, 40, will appear in court Saturday on a policy racket charge. Recznik has been arrested 75 times before, but for gambling with dice and cards.

French-German Relations Tense

Coal-Rich Area Future At Stake

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar, Nov. 29.—Voters of this tiny, coal mining frontier state cast ballots Sunday in parliamentary elections which have dragged French-German relations to their lowest point since the end of World War II.

A new Saar legislature of 50 members will be chosen from a ballot from which all pro-German parties have been barred.

The West German Parliament last week condemned the election as illegal and urged Saarlanders, who are tied economically to France but have strong language and cultural links with Germany, to stay away from the polls or turn in blank ballots. West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer also warned that the Bonn government will not recognize the results of the voting.

The French-supported government of Saar Premier Johannes Hoffman has defied the German pleas for an election boycott as well as an underground campaign by pro-German parties. The premier Friday predicted a heavy vote would be cast.

Hoffman also said his family and leading members of his governing Christian People's party have received death threats and letters demanding their resignations.

The question which underlies the mounting tension here, and threatens any French-German partnership in the projected European army, is:

Should the once-German Saar be returned to the Germans?

Sunday's balloting will not decide this but will have an effect upon the final outcome by determining how much support Hoffman's government, committed to separation from Germany, is able to muster.

The tug-of-war over the booming, densely populated Saar, a region of less than 1,000 square miles with some 850,000 people, has agitated French-German relations for a long time.

Germany lost the Saar through defeat in World War I, but Hitler got it back in 1935 by a plebiscite. It was detached from Germany again after World War II and established as a politically autonomous state with its own government.

The Saar's coal and steel economy, however, is definitely merged with France's production machine. Political parties in the Saar which advocate a return to the German "fatherland" were not allowed to enter candidates in Sunday's election.

The government said this is because they refused to comply with a law pledging support to the postwar Saar constitution. The constitution proclaims Saar independence from Germany.

Four parties have been allowed on the ballot:

1. Christian People's party, favoring the Saar's political detachment. It controls 28 of 50 seats in the present Parliament.
2. Social Democratic party of the Saar, now controlling 17 parliamentary seats.
3. Communist party, which now has one seat.
4. Democratic People's party, a new faction, offers "opposition" to the other recognized parties. It pledges "preservation of the Saar's German culture" but does not discount the need for an economic union with France.

20 Homeless After Blaze

CLEVELAND, Nov. 29.—Twenty persons, made homeless Friday by fire that damaged three houses on Cleveland's west side, have taken temporary quarters with friends and relatives and in hotels.

Another fire Friday night caused an estimated $35,000 damage to a building occupied by United Laboratories and Secor, Inc.

Doctor, 31, Dies

MIDDLETOWN, Nov. 29.—Dr. Frederick A. Whitman, 31, well known Middletown chiropractor, was found dead in his room at the YMCA Friday.

Driver Escaped with Scratches

STRANGE AS IT MAY SEEM the driver of the above Ford car escaped with two minor scratches, and after being checked over at the hospital, started hitch-hiking toward his home in Steubenville.

He was William Lewis, 22, a soldier enroute from Fort Knox, Ky., to his home.

It happened at 3:30 A. M. Saturday when Lewis fell asleep and his car crashed into the south abutment of the Compton Creek bridge on U. S. 22 just east of Johnson's Crossing.

The car was almost completely demolished, but Lewis came out with a scratch on his chin and another on his arm.

Picking Successor For Lie Due To Bring New UN Battle

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 29.—The big powers are reported squaring away for a bitter struggle over a successor to UN Secretary General Trygve Lie, if one can be agreed on.

The Russians are said to be anxious to get Lie, whose extended tour of duty they have bitterly opposed for two years, out of the way as soon as possible.

The Western powers are not in such a hurry, but they feel the problem of whether to accept Lie's resignation must be settled eventually. Diplomatic sources said secret informal talks may commence early next week.

Little has been done about the problem since Lie dramatically tendered his resignation to the General Assembly Nov. 10 under growing pressures of Soviet enmity on one side and U. S. investigations into alleged Reds among American members of the UN staff on the other.

Lie said he was offering to step down in the hope that his action might help bring peace to Korea. The bulky Norwegian, who as first named to the job in February, 1946, incurred Russian opposition by supporting the UN action in Korea. When his five-year term expired in November, 1950, the powers were unable to agree on a successor and the veto-free General Assembly extended Lie's term a further three years.

All delegations have been so engrossed in the debate and behind-the-scenes maneuvering over the deadlocked Korean armistice question they have had little time for anything else.

That problem will reach its climax Monday when the Assembly's Political Committee is expected to vote on an Indian compromise prisoner of war resolution after hearing final arguments by its author, V. K. Krishna Menon. The Communists have already turned thumbs down on the plan.

Turn About Is Fair Play, Eh Santa?

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Santa Claus was in trouble, and saucer-eyed Stanley Schwartz told a Bronx judge: "Please don't hurt Santa."

"Why?" asked Magistrate Hil-da Schwartz, who is not related to 8-year-old Stanley. "Because he is good to children," stammered Stanley. "Santa," 30-year-old Sidney Meyers who does the Kris Kringle honors each season at a Bronx department store, came to court from work. He was attired in his Santa Claus suit.

An upstairs neighbor had complained about Meyers, said he talked too loud nights when he was trying to sleep. Santa laughed too loud, also.

After listening to Stanley, Magistrate Schwartz told Meyers:

"If you give me your assurance that you will moderate your tones, you can return to the North Pole or wherever you come from."

Santa agreed, and beamed at little Stanley.

It took only a slight motion by Santa for Stanley to leap on his lap and whisper:

"A horse on wheels and a car with headlights."

Busy Weekend Indicated By Visitor List

Dulles Due To Make 'Important' Statement Sometime Saturday

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—President-elect Eisenhower started a busy weekend Saturday and his visitor lists indicated conferences on two big problems, foreign affairs and the streamlining of government.

He planned to see nine men at separate times over the weekend.

John Foster Dulles, designated to be secretary of state, will have an announcement of "importance" after his meeting with Ike Saturday, James C. Hagerty, press secretary said.

Sunday, the general is to meet with three college presidents—his brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower among them—apparently to talk about the structure of government. The group includes two men who worked on the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report.

That report, along with others, is being studied with reference to the type of administration Eisenhower is considering. Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire said recently, Adams is to be the President's assistant in the next administration.

IN SETTING a schedule for Saturday and Sunday, Eisenhower broke one of his own rules. Aides reported recently that he hoped to keep his weekends free of work from then on.

He planned to take time out, however, to watch the Army-Navy game on television. Eisenhower said he couldn't get to Philadelphia this year.

Meanwhile, there were no further indications about the time of his departure for Korea. All details of the trip are meshed in a tight net of security measures.

Eisenhower probably added to his information about the Far Eastern situation however, in two conferences Friday.

He was closeted for several hours with Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, and with Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, who wrote the important "Wedemeyer Report" on China and Korea.

Neither appointment was announced in advance. Neither Smith nor Wedemeyer would talk to reporters as they entered and left Eisenhower's headquarters in a downtown hotel. The press secretary disclosed no information about the subject of the talks.

THE "WEDEMAYER Report," which was suppressed for several years by administration officials, contained passages predicting a Soviet move against South Korea if American troops were withdrawn. Eisenhower quoted from it in several speeches during his campaign, using the report to bolster his argument that administration "blunders" brought about the "war."

Late Friday, Eisenhower also had a conference with Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, former Connecticut congresswoman, playwright and a prominent figure in Republican circles.

She turned aside a question as to whether the President-elect asked her to take an office in his administration.

"We don't talk about those things," she said.

Mrs. Luce said Eisenhower had requested the interview, but she added, "we have been talking about world affairs for several years, and we talked about them some more today."

Eisenhower designated two more men for his immediate staff when he enters the White House.

He named Thomas E. Stephens, New York lawyer, as special counsel to the President. Stephens is 49 years old, born in Ireland, an Air Force veteran in World War II, and former New York City corporation counsel.

THE OTHER appointment went to Dr. Gabriel Hauge, also of New York, as White House administrative assistant. Hauge, a native of Hawley, Minn., is 38 years old and one of the editors of the magazine Business Week.

Both men worked with Eisenhower during his campaign. Stephens was one of the appointment secretaries, and Hauge worked on the general's speeches.

Two other editors were scheduled to see Eisenhower Saturday. They were C. D. Jackson, editor of Fortune Magazine, and J. Emmet Hughes of Life and Time magazines. They also assisted him with his campaign speeches.

Meanderings By Wash Fayette

Mr. and Mrs. Forest Gilmer, residing on the Good Hope Road, have a White Rock hen that laid three eggs in two days, and has been laying an average of one each day.

Purchased on August 25, the hen has laid 90 eggs and on Thanksgiving Day the miracle happened—the hen laid an egg at 8:30 A. M. and a second egg she had laid was found in the nest at 11:30 A. M. the same day.

The ambitious White Rock hen is much prized by her owners who are justly proud of her egg-laying record.

Wide Variance In Farm Profit

Interesting Figures
Are Disclosed

It's not how much money a farmer spends on crop production but how he spends it that counts on the profit side, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, in summarizing a survey by J. B. Cunningham, University of Illinois farm economist.

Cunningham found that low-income farms spent about as much as high income farms on crop production, yet there was a difference of as much as $9,537 in net income between them. He based his conclusions on an accounting study of record keeping farms in central and northern Illinois. The farms were of medium size on soils of medium productivity.

Production costs on high-income farms specializing on grain and livestock were only $477 more than those on low-earning farms, yet the big-earning farms had a net return of $8,730, whereas the low-income farms went into the red by $406.

IN HOG FARMING, production costs averaged only $41 more on high income farms than on low, but there was a difference in net income between them. In dairying, production costs were only $1,540 more on high earning farms, while the net return was $9,439 greater.

Cunningham reported that the high income farms spent from one-fourth to one-half more for fertilizer and lime than did the low-earning farms. That made a big difference in yields per acre of grain, beef, pork and dairy products. Labor was used more effectively on the high-earning farms, because each worker produced from three-fourths to one and one-half again as much as the worker on the low-income farm.

"The high income farms," he said, "were more productive and yielded higher net returns, not because they spent more, but because they spent it where it would do the most good."

Liquid Nitrogen May Be Solution To Farm Problem

Liquid nitrogen fertilizer may be the answer to the nitrogen shortage problem for some farmers, reports Capper's Farmer. The liquid fertilizer this year passed on the farm tests in Missouri and Illinois.

Although work with the liquid form is new, the national farm magazine says farmers like the solution after they tried it.

"When we started with solutions last spring, I wasn't too sold," said Ray Eahlert, manager of the Missouri county office of the Missouri Farmers Association. "But we did get an extra source of nitrogen and I'm glad now we have it. I believe on the whole it works fine, the year around on all soil types."

The tests were made on 4,000 acres of corn, wheat and pasture in Missouri county and Morgan county, Illinois. The corrosive nitrogen solution is carried in special tanks mounted on tractors. Solution is pumped through hoses down to knives which put the liquid into the soil.

The farmers tried various amounts of nitrogen per acre for different crops. And they experimented with different means of application.

Despite those variations, they concluded that:

The extra source of nitrogen saved the day when other forms weren't available.

When correctly applied, liquid nitrogen was as productive as other forms.

The liquid form seemed to make corn withstand drought better. It worked best in overflow bottoms of gumbo and sandy soil.

Farm Income May Show Five Percent Drop

Farmers' net income next year probably will average 5 percent less than in 1952, an agricultural economist at Ohio State University said today. Pointing out that this is the prospect for all U.S. farmers, Mervin G. Smith added that Ohio farmers' net income may drop even more than 5 percent.

Ohio farmers market a smaller proportion of products from crops that have been increasing in the dollar volume sold, Smith explained.

While costs of farm operation are edging up even now, the value of farm marketings will remain about the same, Smith said that in 1953, farmers probably will sell more commodities at slightly lower prices than this year.

Actual buying power in the United States next year may be down 6 or 7 percent from 1952 buying power for each farm person. Smith said that would be a 20 percent drop from the peak of farm buying power in 1947.

Purchasing power of non-farm people will be about 8 percent more next year than it was in 1947.

Sound does not travel in a vacuum.

Pollination Is Found Poor

Caused Cobs Without Grains Is Claim

Hot, dry weather produced stalks without ears and cobs without corn in many Ohio corn fields this fall, an agronomist at Ohio State University said today.

E. P. Reed of the Agricultural Extension Service, added, however, that poor pollination was more to blame for earless stalks and cornless cobs than poor growing. He pointed out that corn fields were hot and dry when tassels were coming out and when pollen was moving to silks.

In some cases, pollen died shortly after tassels emerged. In other cases, silks dried up and pollen would not cling to them. Tassels came out in some fields sooner than silks. When the silks emerged, most of the pollen was gone.

MULTIPLE EARS, reported by many farmers, developed when the main ear was not adequately pollinated, Reed said. He explained that the ear shoots always are there on some hybrid corn. Farmers usually do not notice them. Shoots developed this year and produced a number of cobs on one shank when the main ear failed to develop.

Farmers who find corn on buttends of ears but not at the tips have found cases of incomplete pollination. Reed pointed out that silks at the tips of ears come out last and are pollinated last.

Although faulty pollination produced most of the damage this year, there were some cases where pollination was complete but kernels were not developed at ear tips. Red said that under poor growing conditions, some hybrids supply nutrition only to the buttends of ears. Ear tips are permitted to starve so at least some kernels can develop completely.

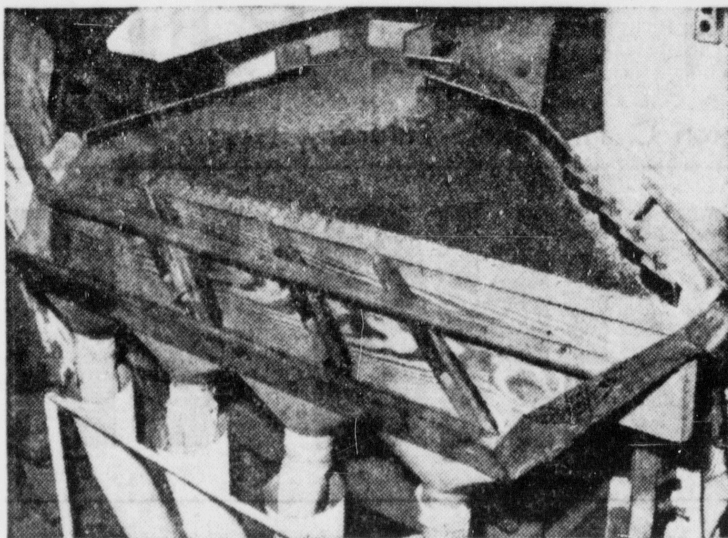

Cases of multiple ears and undeveloped grains at ear tips were evidence of plants' attempts to make up for difficult conditions, Reed said.

Agle & Sons Elected To Guernsey Club

PETERBOROUGH, N. H. — The American Guernsey Cattle Club has announced the election of Ralph N. Agle & Sons, Bur Oak Farms, near Jeffersonville to membership. They have a herd of registered Guernsey cows on their farm.

The American Guernsey Cattle Club is a national organization of more than 50,000 breeders of purebred Guernseys. It records the registration of purebred Guernseys which trace to the Island of Guernsey, the original home of the breed, in the English Channel. It also supervises tests of production and, through Golden Guernsey, Inc., supervises the marketing of Golden Guernsey Milk.

Seed Vital Factor in Defense And Careful Selection Urged

Gravity Mill In Seed Processing Plant Cleaning and Grading Clover Seed.

Many things that add to better living and increased prosperity are accepted without much thought to "how they got that way." Take farm seeds, for example. What happens from the time the seed is harvested to the time it is put into the planter box for sowing?

Field seedsmen handle the largest part of farm seeds. The tonnage of some items is tremendous, and each has to be handled according to its special needs. Each year some 125 million pounds of alfalfa seed, 175 million lespedeza, 100 million red clover, 50 million sweetclover, 60 million timothy, 25 million bluegrass, plus many more millions of other grass and legume seeds are harvested and cleaned.

Most all of this seed reaches the seed processor containing weed seeds, noxious and otherwise, some easy to detect, others hidden from the untrained eye. It is his job to take this seed and convert it to the high quality seed the careful farmer requires.

THE SIMPLE fanning mill is not adequate to do the refining task called for by today's high standards. Intricate cleaning machinery of various kinds, employing a number of different principles, is in use under trained men in the modern seed plant, to perform daily miracles of separating the good seed from the weeds and worthless material.

The seed processor is often the field seed wholesaler. He purchases the field seed from seed growers and country shippers and sells it to small wholesalers or retail dealers. He maintains stocks not only for the regular demand, but for emergencies, and store them in suitable plants to preserve the germination.

and pack the seed to retain its quality and be attractive to the buyer. He maintains a seed laboratory, with trained technicians, to check and control quality, and labels the seed in compliance with State and Federal seed laws.

THIS SEED wholesaler carries the seed from harvest to planting time and in some cases from one season to the next, often at risk of a market drop between seasons. He assumes the risk of declining germination and losses from rodents and other pests.

When great emergencies arise, such as flood and drought, he is prepared to round up quickly, seed supplies from places and sources that the layman knows little about. Through descriptive circulars and catalogs he promotes the use of high quality seed and certified seed of new and improved varieties.

The retail dealer keeps informed not only as to the needs of his customer, but also as to available supplies of one or more wholesale dealers who can quickly fill such needs when his supply runs out. He keeps in close touch with his county agent and experiment stations, and is a constant source of up-to-date information on all field seeds for his locality. He is the one who maintains direct personal contact with the farmer who sows the seed and from whom he gets commendations or complaints first-hand.

A-Bombs 'Stored'

Brucellosis Testing Is Urged for Hogs

Farmers choosing hogs for breeding should have them tested for brucellosis to protect farm family health as well as to assure a better spring pig crop, the American Foundation for Animal Health advised today.

"Brucellosis-infected swine have been found to be a prime source of undulant fever among farm families," the AFAH said. "Blood-testing the hogs on a farm is now becoming routine practice with many owners, both as a health and a profit measure."

The Foundation recommended that hogs which react to the blood test should either be sent to slaughter or kept in isolation, depending on the veterinarian's judgment. Further tests should then be continued at regular periods until no reactors are found.

If any breeding swine show signs of bad joints or lameness the Foundation also recommended that they be given a health checkup. Lameness and defective joints can be symptoms of erysipelas, infectious arthritis, brucellosis, or nutritional deficiencies. Foundation spokesmen point out that accurate diagnosis is necessary to determine the nature of the disease so steps may be taken to protect the rest of the drove.

Industrial Plants Get State Permits

COLUMBUS, Nov. 29.—(P)—The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board Friday granted waste discharge permits to 48 industrial plants.

The board ordered each industry to take certain steps to control pollution and said it wouldn't renew the permits unless those steps were taken. The industries and the terms of their permits include:

Cadmium Plating Works, Spencerville, 6 months.

General Electric Co., lamp division, Circleville, 12 months.

General Electric Co., lamp division, Logan, 12 months.

William H. Anderson, Fayette County, 8 months.

Beery Hatchery To Be Reopened

Allen T. Shepherd, Sr., and his son, Allen T., Jr., of New Holland, have taken over the management of the Beery Hatchery on North North Street here for Mrs. Fred Beery of Hillsboro. In making the announcement, the Shepherds said they had made the arrangements with Mrs. Beery.

The hatchery has been closed for nearly six months. The Shepherds said they planned to have it "open for business" Dec. 1.

A stock of feed and poultry supplies are to be carried at the hatchery here. Orders will be taken for chicks hatched at the Beery Hatchery at Hillsboro.

The elder Beery, now past 80 years of age but not showing it, said he had raised chickens all his life.

Western Cattle May Lack Vitamin

Because of dry weather last summer and early fall, western cattle being shipped to cornbelt feedlots may show symptoms of shipping fever when actually they may be suffering from vitamin A deficiency, the American Foundation for Animal Health said today.

Drought conditions in the western part of the nation have "burned out" much of the range land, the Foundation said. The dry grazing areas often fail to provide sufficient vitamin A to keep cattle healthy.

A Foundation spokesman said cattle suffering from the vitamin deficiency might show symptoms similar to shipping fever, causing confusion in the mind of the feeder. Rapid breathing, swollen legs and the loss of appetite and weight might occur with either disease. Other common symptoms are a discharge from the eyes and nose, stiff legs, and night blindness.

Although metal pens were used in ancient times, they did not come into common use until the 19th Century.

Farm Costs Grow Economists Report

Farm labor and fertilizer lead the list of items that probably will increase farming costs in 1953, Mervin G. Smith, extension economist said today.

Smith said economists expect farm labor to be 3 to 5 percent higher next year than during 1952. Fertilizer prices probably will edge up 2 to 4 percent. Labor costs in 1952 increased 7 percent over the previous year while fertilizer prices averaged 3 percent higher in 1952 than in '51.

The Ohio State University economist advised farmers to arrange early for next year's fertilizers. "They will want to use more next year to increase production," he pointed out. Supplies of nitrogen will be about 11 percent larger in 1953. There will be about 11 percent more phosphate and 17 percent more potash.

Feed prices next year probably will go up. Timothy, brome grass and alsike clover seed probably will be higher. Alfalfa, ladino clover and seed for winter cover crops will be lower in price in 1953.

Pesticides, building materials and interest rates in 1953 probably will stay near 1952 levels. Farm land values also are expected to remain near present levels.

Food Abundant For Christmas

Turkey In Storage Sets New Record

Even Santa will find it difficult to carry everything that farmers will provide for the December list of plentiful foods, the United States Department of Agriculture reported today.

Food markets will be heaped with turkeys, pork and its products and festive foods such as fruit and nuts.

Farm sales of hogs are expected to slacken some in December. Pork still will be plentiful at reasonable prices.

Turkey supplies from the 1952 crop also will be large in December. There were 135 million pounds in cold storage the first of November—largest stocks on record for that date.

There's so much food that prices have dropped to about half what they were a year ago, the department said. Buying food looks like a good way to shave food costs, especially this month when home-makers need more fat for baking and other holiday cooking.

There are plenty of filberts and walnuts, domestic dried figs and raisins. Oranges, grapefruit, table grapes and honey will be abundant next month.

Carrots and dry baby lima beans are the only vegetables expected to be in generally good supply in the Midwest. There are large stocks of frozen fish, especially cod fillets. Dairy products still plentiful are cottage cheese, buttermilk and non-fat dry milk solids. Vegetable shortening, table fat and salad oil continue plentiful.

Activities On the Farm

(Continued from Page Two) the fading of the pigment makes very little difference in the appearance of the buildings, and they are well protected, if good paint is used.

FALL PLOWING

This is a good year to get some fall plowing done, unless the ground is too hard and dry, and it is in many communities. When I recently passed the "James Farm" in Fayette County, I noticed that they'd done a lot of fall plowing. The ground went over without very many clods too, for it is loose and evidently high in organic matter.

Doing as simple a thing as getting some fall plowing done surely gives you a good start on your spring work, for if there is a cold, late, wet spring, it is sometimes pretty hard to get plowing done. Most of our farm readers can recall springs like this. I think of two that we had when I was growing up on the home farm.

Fall plowing is especially valuable for old well established sods, where grub worms may be and often are pretty well established.

Fall plowing disturbs them and many do not winter over to damage the corn stand. Fall plowed land takes in more moisture than that plowed in late spring. It improves the tilth in most cases too, and makes the soil more hospitable for plant growth, as soils men express it. If one can find the time, and the weather permits, it is wise to do some fall plowing in the corn belt.

UNUSUAL ROADSIDE SIGN

"For Sale" I recently read on an L-shaped roadside farm in Hamilton County. Below the sign was three ears of corn on strings. It is an unusual but a very effective sign, for it is different, and we all react well to the unusual, as it tends to stimulate our curiosity. While I wasn't in the market for corn, I did want to stop, and look at the corn. I expect most people react like that and if they are in the market for corn, and the quality is good and the price right, they are pretty apt to buy some of it.

EVERGREEN WINDBREAK

I recently passed a farmstead in Butler County with a long row of evergreens about 20 feet high, set close together on the west side. It added to the beauty of the farm home, and would certainly keep it much warmer in the winter season.

for most of our winds come from the west. These evergreen windbreaks are being used on many southern Ohio farms. They look to me like good investments. If you're interested in planting some evergreens for windbreaks, it will pay you to get in touch with your county agricultural agent, "Vo-Ag" teacher or some of the soils men in your community and to get their recommendations about what species and varieties to use.

LIQUID NITROGEN

Leslie Purtee of Clinton County reported using 100 pounds of "Liquid Nitrogen" per acre as a side dressing on corn. I do not have the yield report, but I'd say it is a good investment, for a plant reacts quickly to nitrogen. When I asked him how he plowed corn he said that he plowed very shallow after the first cultivation. He's of the opinion that one hasn't much business cutting off the roots of corn plants, after they get pretty well started. He had out 88 acres of corn this year, and he and his boy did all of the work of planting and cultivating it.

SOME PRACTICAL FARMING SUGGESTIONS

Here are some practical farming suggestions, gathered from many sources that I thought would be of interest to our readers, who make their living tilling the soil:

If you have a good supply of water in your farm ponds, and they are near your pastures of clover and timothy so that you can irrigate them, it is possible to carry as many as 17 dairy cattle on 10 acres. (I'm sorry I do not have the name of the farmer making this record, nor the details of how the irrigating was done, but it is practical to irrigate pastures when there is a drought and the water supply in ponds is abundant).

Put nitrate of soda on corn just ahead of the corn plow so that it will be quickly available to the crop.

It is practical and profitable to start creep feeding of pigs when they're 4 to 6 days old. Rolled oats is a good feed to start them on for the pigs like them, and they are high in protein.

It is practical to use small feeders for the little pigs, and to put them in the corner of the farrowing houses together them started eating early in life. When you do this you can get that extra pound at weaning time, and two pounds extra weight at marketing time. Changing from rolled oats to the regular feed you usually use in the feeders at weaning time, should be gradual, as should any feeding change, so as to avoid any digestive disturbances.

Union Township To Plan CROP

Committee Meeting Wednesday Night

A farm-to-farm canvass of Union Township to gather up grain and cash for the Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP) is to be planned at a meeting at the home of Miss Ann Story on the CCC Highway, about a half mile east of Washington C. H., next Wednesday evening. The meeting is slated to get under way at 8 P. M.

Indications were that the plan drawn up for Jasper Township will be followed in Union Township.

At the Wednesday night meeting, maps marked with roads and farms, probably will be given to each of the committee members. If the Jasper Township pattern is followed, not a farm house will be missed.

Miss Story, who is to be the hostess for the Wednesday night meeting, is the secretary for the county CROP organization and the chairman for Union Township.

REV. SANFORD LINDSEY, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, is the county chairman. Since this is primarily a Christian-Rural program, most of the clergy in the county are supporting CROP.

Mrs. Doris Wipert, the publicity chairman for the county organization, said the solicitors would like to have contributions of corn, but added that the cash equivalent from those who have no grain would be "most acceptable, of course."

CROP, a nationwide movement, is designed to aid the hungry and distressed in the war-ravaged countries overseas.

When the Union Township canvass is started, it probably will be done with men and women on trucks going from farm to farm, it was said. However, the final decision on the methods to be used are to be made at the Wednesday night meeting.

Members of the committee who have said they would take part in the planning and execution are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Browning, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Willis, Mr. and Mrs. James Braun, James Perrill, Roger and Fred Armbrust, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Dray and Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCoy.

Do Farm Crop Seeds Run Out? Poor Soil Usually the Fault

After five years the alfalfa in the right foreground has been "run out" by disease and weeds. Ranger, on left, has full stand and vigorous growth.

Who hasn't heard this or a similar statement: "My oat have run out so I want to change seed?" "Running out", as applied to seed, has different meanings, but signifies one thing to all, that yield or performance otherwise isn't what it used to be.

There are many reasons for disappointments in yield, some inherent in the seed itself while others have little to do with the seed. Seasonal variations are often misinterpreted by growers, who say the seed has run out. This is especially true if two or three good seasons, followed by a bad one, coincide with the introduction and use of a new variety.

Bad soil conditions brought about by poor soil management are not as apparent in good crop years as in poor ones. Good farms show up as oases in the desert, when weather conditions hurt the poorly managed land most. Though the more successful neighbor may have used the same seed, only one answer comes to the poor farmer: "The seed has just run out."

BUT SOMETIMES varieties behave mysteriously for other reasons. New varieties are often said to be resistant to insects and diseases. This at first may be true, yet when the crop has been grown for a time in an area, disease and insect enemies may build up to damage, sometimes alarming, degrees. Not only old strains of diseases build up, but new strains

Plan Outlined For Fertilizer

Lime Is Included As Part Of Program

The Department of Agriculture and the Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities have just recently announced a program aimed at bringing about more efficient use of fertilizer and lime. This is one means of increasing food and fiber production meet the needs of our population which is increasing at a rate of 7,000 per day, while building up the productivity of the soil and increasing net returns to farmers. In addition to meeting the increased domestic demand, this Nation's ability to share its food supplies with needy people abroad is one of our strongest assets in working with other nations.

There is little prospect of increasing crop acreage in this country to meet the ever-increasing demand for food. Hence, efficient use of fertilizer and lime plus the use of other soil and water conservation practices must be coupled with good soil management in order to meet these increased demands.

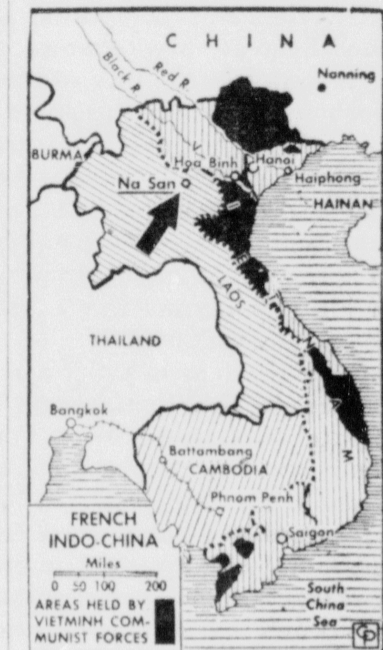

IN THE TWO DECADES from 1910 to 1930 the domestic consumption of fertilizer has increased almost threefold from 1,524,000 tons of total plant food nutrients (NP&K) to 4,412,000 tons and lime from 3,468,000 to 29,842,000 or almost nine-fold.

The Department of Agriculture and the fertilizer industry have set goals for increasing fertilizer supplies by 1955 as follows: nitrogen 70 percent; phosphate 55 percent and potash 51 percent. It appears that these will be met with the possible exception of phosphate. With respect to lime only about 25 percent of the land in need of this important mineral was adequately treated in 1950.

It is estimated that 395 million tons of lime are needed to adequately treat all land and that annual maintenance would require 47 million tons. Use of less than this amount annually means that soil fertility and productivity are declining rather than increasing. The lime industry will have to work out some problems of distribution, but otherwise should encounter but little difficulty in meeting the demand.

The Department of Agriculture and the Land-Grant Colleges recognize that they have a joint responsibility in promoting efficient use of these materials. Long-range programs of research, farmer education, dissemination of information and other services will have to be undertaken by them if this Nation's food requirements are continued to be met. The immediate program however is to help farmers get the most out of current and prospective supplies of these materials.

Noble-Dennis
Wedding Vows
Read Thursday

The Bloomingburg Methodist Church was the setting for an informal wedding Thanksgiving Day, when Miss Norma Jean Noble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Noble of Bloomingburg, became the bride of Mr. Robert Dennis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dennis of New Holland.

Rev. Lester Taylor officiated at the double ring service at 3:30 P. M. and the couple was attended by Miss Donna Knisley of Springfield, as maid of honor and Mr. Darrell Persinger of New Holland, as best man and Mrs. J. M. Alleman played the Wedding Marches.

The bride chose for her marriage a pastel blue suit with navy blue accessories and her corsage was red roses.

Miss Knisley was wearing a navy blue suit with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the wedding the bride's parents entertained at their home at a dinner for the wedding party and later the new Mr. and Mrs. Dennis left for their newly furnished farm home on the Circleville Road, near New Holland.

The bride, a graduate of Bloomingburg High School in the class of 1952, was until her marriage employed at the Garringer Manu-

Progress Club
Holds Meeting

Misses Louise and Helen Fults were hostesses to members of the Progress Club at their home in Jeffersonville.

Mrs. Max Morrow, president, called the meeting to order and roll call was responded to with mineral wealth.

Mrs. Kurt Coil, presented the first paper under the title "The Eternal Flame" which is the story of natural gas and told of its discovery and prevalence throughout the United States—explaining the gradual realization of its value as a natural resource especially as fuel.

The story of the pipelines to great industrial centers emphasizes the recognition of natural gas as being very valuable.

Mrs. Neal Conner reviewed the book "The Sea Around Us" by Rachel Carson, most interestingly and told of the unusual revelation of the fathomless depths of the sea which modern devices have made known and revealed that the ocean is earth's greatest storehouse of minerals and concluded by saying that all things at last return to the sea, which is the beginning and the end.

Following these unusually interesting talks a social hour was enjoyed and a refreshment course was served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be combined with the Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Max Morrow.

Add a little curry to cream sauce and mix with diced leftover cooked potatoes; heat gently and serve with pork chops.

WCTU Members

Mrs. A. H. Finley was hostess to the members of the Washington C. H. WCTU on Friday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. John Case, presided over the meeting and opened with prayer.

The secretary, Mrs. B. E. Kelley, read the minutes of the last meeting and Mrs. Elza Sanderson gave the treasurer's report.

Several important issues were discussed by the members and it was decided to contribute to temperance projects.

Round robin cards were sent to Mrs. J. W. Haigler, Mrs. Mattie Tillet, ill members and to Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Lemons on their 52nd wedding anniversary.

The singing of the hymn was followed with the reading of a story by Mrs. Peter Smeltzer, entitled "Memory is Bitter-sweet" written by Rev. James DeWeerd, minister at the Cadle Tabernacle.

Rev. DeWeerd was a chaplain in World War II and he wrote of many experiences which came to him during the dark hours of war.

The meeting closed with the WCTU benediction and during the social hour Mrs. Finley was assisted by Mrs. Jennie Todhunter, Mrs. Emma Haigler, Mrs. Roy Plymale, Mrs. Mattie Tillet, Miss Annette Stafford, Mrs. O. D. Farquhar and her granddaughter, Bonnie Burns of Columbus, in the serving of a dessert course.

Browning Club
Plans Meeting

The annual Christmas meeting of Browning Club will be held on the regular meeting date of Tuesday, December 2 at the home of Mrs. John P. Case at 7:30 P. M.

Mrs. Tran Del Ponte, president, will be in charge of the business session and Mrs. Willard Bitzer will be program chairman.

A talk will be given by Miss Cordelia McCafferty, who will emphasize the life of "Da Vince" from childhood to old age—of his famous "Last Supper" and "Mona Lisa" which were considered his best paintings.

Miss McCafferty visited the rectory of the monastery, July 2, 1912, where she purchased her copy of the Last Supper.

Raphael's short life and his masterpiece the "Sistine Madonna," a perfect copy from the Dresden Gallery, will also be emphasized and Miss McCafferty will have these perfect copies on display and desires that all who can may see them.

Following her talk, Mrs. Case will accompany at the organ for the singing of Christmas carols. Members are privileged to bring guests.

Combined Circles
To Hold Meeting

The combined WSCS Circles of Grace Methodist Church will meet in Fellowship Hall, Wednesday, December 3.

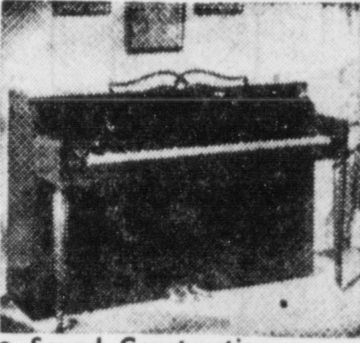

A covered dish luncheon at 12 o'clock noon will be followed with the business session, which will be presided over by Mrs. C. L. Lewellen, president, and the program in charge of Mrs. Willard Wilson will be opened with devotionals in charge of Mrs. Clinton Swengel, will feature a Christmas theme.

Mrs. Arch O. Riber will present The Christmas Story and the program will close with the singing of Christmas carols.

Garden Club
Is To Have
Guest Speaker

The meeting of the Town and Country Garden Club on Wednesday, December 3, at the home of Mrs. Charles Duff, will feature a talk by Mrs. Holtzmueller of the Mt. Sterling Flower Gardens, who will also demonstrate the wrapping of Christmas gifts, and the making of Christmas decorations.

Pope Selects
24 To Become
New Cardinals

VATICANCITY, Nov. 29 — Pope Pius XII Saturday announced the names of 24 new Cardinals of the Roman Catholic church. They will be elevated to the Sacred College in a great consistory to be held Jan. 12.

Only one American appeared on the list of new princes of the church, James Francis McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles.

The long-expected consistory will bring the death-depleted ranks of the Sacred College to its full strength of 70.

It will be the first since the great postwar consistory of 1946 in which the Pope gave symbolic red hats to 32 prelates in one of the most impressive and splendid ceremonies of the Catholic church.

The list also included the name of Msgr. Aloysius Stepinac, archbishop of Zagreb, who was condi-tionally released from prison by Yugoslavia's Communist government last year after he had served five years of a 16-year sentence for alleged collaboration with the Nazis during World War II. Premier Marshal Tito's government has not permitted him to resume his church post.

The new cardinals are from 12 countries. Eleven of them, however, are Italian, bringing the number of Italians in the Sacred College to 27. Non-Italians will number 43.

Two of the new cardinals are from France, two from Spain, and one each from Brazil, Ecuador, Yugoslavia, Ireland, United States, Canada, Poland, Colombia and Germany.

Cecil Kneisley and Preston Dray proudly display the two deer tied to their car, which they killed on their recent successful hunting trip in the "wilds" of Michigan. (Record-Herald Photo)

Proudly two Fayette County deer hunters parked their car in front of the Record-Herald building Tuesday afternoon and, with enthusiasm pointed out to all who passed, two fine bucks of the gray deer variety, tied in front of the hood of their car.

These two men, Preston Dray residing about four miles east of Washington on the old Springfield Road and Cecil Kneisley, who lives seven miles east of this city on the Dennis Road, were very enthusiastic over their 10-day hunting trip which they had just completed.

They had gone into northern Michigan to McCullen Lake about 75 miles from the Straits of Mackinac. Two others were in the party from this county which shared a cabin in the deep woods, Glenn Smith and Charles Aiken.

The deer season in Michigan opened on November 15 and Dray and Kneisley started from here on the 14th. They were joined at their cabin by Smith and Aiken and on Nov. 16, Smith was the first to get his quota, one buck on that Sunday and on the following Sunday evening, Kneisley shot one for himself. Dray's rifle brought down one for him on the previous Tuesday.

SINCE ONE BUCK per hunter is all that was allowed at this time, three of the party were all set to come home but Aiken wanted one for himself so Smith stayed over to keep him company till he was successful in getting a buck for himself; the other two came back to their homes here.

When Dray and Kneisley parked on Fayette Street their "kill" attracted a lot of attention from passersby while they waited for the Record-Herald photographer to get a shot at their good luck.

The two bucks were each about two years of age as nearly as these hunters could estimate. They bore no antler, simply showing spikes. When asked what they proposed to do with their game Kneisley spoke for both when he promptly declared, "We'll eat 'em of course."

Kneisley had vowed when he reached Michigan that he would not shave until he had landed a buck, since a doe is protected by law until a later date. When he reached home he still showed the effects of that vow for his face showed a several days growth of beard even though he had "shot his buck."

THE HUNTERS good humoredly

talked about Kneisley being called by the rest of the group their "problem child." He was constantly getting lost every time he left the cabin by himself. Glenn Smith finally found a partial solution when he secured a small but loud whistle which he gave to Kneisley with instructions to "blow and keep blowing" every time he got lost until someone of the party found him. This, they told him was a reasonably safe way to "get him out of the woods."

Another method of help which the other three hunters found to be fairly successful way to blow a horn which one of them had taken along until Kneisley could trace the sound back to the cabin. "It took a lot of blowing," was the final verdict of all, since the yelling they had done to call him before was only partly successful. Aiken was reported to have had a bad dream which he recounted to the others. One night right after he had called and yelled for Kneisley until he was hoarse, he said he had dreamed that he had yelled so hard that his tonsils shot right out of his throat.

Such were some of the experiences which one bunch of Fayette County good fellows had on a hunting trip they will long remember.

German Youth Is Here Studying Agriculture

CHRISTIAN MITTELSTRASS (left), foreign exchange student from Germany who is attending Ohio State University, is visiting Fayette County this weekend. He is studying with W. W. Montgomery, county agent for Fayette County, the annual Extension Service report of the county to find out how its teaching methods are used and how the Extension Service helps the people of the county in production, marketing, home making and 4-H club work. Mittelstrass is studying extension work at Ohio State and is going back to Germany to organize a similar program there. (Record-Herald Photo)

A young man from Germany is visiting Fayette County this weekend and studying farm life and Extension Service work being carried on here.

He is Christian Mittelstrass, an exchange student at Ohio State and extension work. He expects to return to Germany in September of 1953 and carry out a program similar to the one the Extension Service does here.

Many of the exchange students at Ohio State, who are interested in extension work, are sent to different farms to see and study how they are managed. Mittelstrass is spending the weekend here with Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Montgomery and their sons, Barton and Bob.

Montgomery is the county agent for Fayette County and also manages his own farm. This way, Mittelstrass can learn about the operations of a farm and the Extension Service.

Mittelstrass is one of three girls and four men who came to Ohio State in 1952 from Germany. They made the trip across on the United States Line.

THE VISITOR was entertained at a turkey dinner Thanksgiving Day at the Montgomery home. He was taken to see some farms in the county Friday and also some of the businesses and industries in Washington C. H.

Mittelstrass speaks English quite well and is pretty well acquainted with the American way of life. He had six years of English when he was in high school in Germany.

He was in the German Army for a short time during the second World War.

He will spend next summer on a farm before he goes back to Germany.

Mittelstrass said he liked Fayette County.

Most students who come to colleges and universities in the United States from foreign countries feel that the American people go out of their way to make them welcome and that most of the countries in Europe, like America, dislike Communism and have pride and independence, he said.

Recently five international farm youth exchange delegates returned to the United States from five different countries they had visited and they felt about the same way.

ONE GIRL, who visited in Finland, said the country is a second home for her. Those with whom she lived didn't have any use for Communism, she said and they also had pride and independence. She stated that the Finns are proud of their freedom of debt. They paid their World War I debt to the United States before World War II and completed World War II "reparations" payments to Russia in September.

A student who had visited in Germany found his host families friendly to Americans as individuals but critical of some U.S. government actions. He said every person he talked to has a strong dislike for war.

In Italy, a young girl student said her host families didn't want her to work but treated her as a guest. She said the farm people she met worked hard and were very friendly and very much the same as people at home.

A fine sense of humor is typical of the people of Scotland where another student visited, she said. "As far as people are concerned, I never felt that I was away from home."

In Sweden, a man student, found the same love of freedom and pride in progress that he finds in Ohio.

Washington C. H. Girl At 4-H Club Congress

Marilyn Cunningham today was headed for Chicago to show her product of her talent and handiwork at the National 4-H Club Congress next week in the Style Review.

The 4-H Club Congress opened Saturday (today) and is to continue through next week.

Marilyn, a very pretty blue-eyed blond, 5 feet 7 inches tall, was chosen for the trip to Chicago last summer when she won the 4-H club contest at the Ohio State Fair where she modeled a complete costume of a dress and coat she had made and accessories she had chosen to go with them.

Taken into consideration in the statewide competition were the modeling, workmanship and artistic taste.

Her dress is of beige wool made in the classic tailored style and her coat is of cocoa brown wool of fingertip length. She dyed her shoes teal blue to match her hat. This is the costume she will wear in the Style Review.

Marilyn, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cunningham, 8 Oxford Place, was graduated from Washington C. H. High School last June. She was a straight A student in high school where she was active in many extra-curricular activities.

She had been in 4-H club work for seven years when she took top honors in the statewide modeling competition at the State Fair. That was the year she and Joan Cockrill were the co-advisors of the Busy Beaver 4-H club.

SHE ENTERED Ohio State University this fall and is majoring in home economics. She was granted what might be called a leave of absence to go to the 4-H Club Congress because her work in the 4-H club program is along the same lines as her major college course.

At Chicago, she said she understood she would only model her complete costume in the Style Review and that there was no competition connected with it.

Despite her achievements in modeling, Marilyn said laughingly that she had "given some thought" to going into modeling but she added that those thoughts really were not serious.

She is one of 26 girls attending the 4-H Congress from Ohio; the other 25 went for accomplishments in other fields of the 4-H program. This is Marilyn's second trip to

Dates Given For Beginning of Official Terms

New Officers Of County-State Are Informed On Law

Dates of commencement or full term of office of state and county elected officials are outlined in a news bulletin issued by the secretary of state's office Friday.

The full term of offices for the following state officials begins on the second Monday in next January, the 12th: governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, auditor of state, treasurer of state and attorney general.

The following county office terms commence on the first Monday next January, the 5th: county commissioners, recorder, engineer, sheriff, coroner, clerk of courts and prosecuting attorney. The county treasurer's term begins the first Monday in September. County auditors were not elected in the election this year, but when elected their terms begin the second Monday in March.

Any unexpired terms commence from the date the commission is issued.

It is further pointed out that the state law requires that all county officials must receive a commission ters in the Conrad-Hilton Hotel. Aside from her appearance in the Style Review, Marilyn said she knew little about the details of the week-long program.

from the governor before entering upon the duties of the office. The fee for such commission is $5, and the law provides that when the results of an election are determined, the Board of Elections shall send the certificate of election along with the fee to the Secretary of State. The commission is then sent to the Clerk of Court of Common Pleas, who delivers it to the official.

This section of law does not apply to representatives to the Ohio General Assembly. They merely are given their certificate of election by the Board, and the law states such certificate is prima facie evidence of the right to membership in the General Assembly. They present their certificate of election on January 5 when the new session convenes.

The bulletin further states that all candidates for village, city, board of education or township offices must file their declarations of candidacy or nomination petitions before 6:30 P. M., February 4, 1953 (with the exception of charter villages or cities).

Lions Working on Offense For Game at Grandview

"They've got a long way to go," Coach Harry Townsend said after Friday morning's workout of the WHS Lion basketball team in preparation for their next game at Grandview, a Columbus suburb, Tuesday night.

They squeaked through to a last-minute, 58-57 victory over New Holland's Bulldogs in their opener here last Friday night, but in Coach Townsend's opinion they were fortunate.

"They looked pretty ragged in that game," he said, but he added that "I think they'll come along after they've played together a little more. . . . Eight days of practice just is not enough, especially when most of them had just finished up a nine-game football schedule."

The WHS cagers were back on the floor for a workout the day after their opener and again Friday morning after the Thanksgiving Day layoff.

Most attention in those sessions were given to the offense because,

4 Games Due On Pro Circuit For Sunday

Cleveland Is Favored By 10 Points Over Washington Redskins

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Four games will be played in the National Football League Sunday but only one thing is certain — not more than two teams will be tied for first place in the National Conference.

All four games have a direct bearing on the championship picture and it could well be that the day's play will end with the New York Giants, Cleveland Browns and the Philadelphia Eagles still tied for the lead in the American Conference.

But such is not the case in the National, where the Detroit Lions hold a half-game advantage over the San Francisco 49ers and the Los Angeles Rams, thanks to a 48-24 Thanksgiving Day victory over Green Bay.

The 49ers and the Rams, who won the league title last year, will clash for the second straight week with the engagement scheduled before 60,000 fans in San Francisco's Kezar Stadium. A victory for either team will create a two-way deadlock with the Lions. But a tie (something unusual in the pro circuit) would give Detroit lone possession of the top spot.

TO MAINTAIN the three-way tie at the head of the American Division Cleveland has to defeat the Redskins at Washington, the Giants will have to down the tough Steelers at Pittsburgh and the Eagles will have to take their second straight from the Cardinals in Chicago's Comiskey Park.

The Browns are favored by 10 points. They edged the 'Skins, 19-15, last time, but only because of the talented toe of Lou Groza. The big tackle booted four fieldgoals.

Halfback Ken Carpenter and end Dante Lavelli will be back in the Cleveland lineup, providing more scoring punch.

Cleveland's only touchdown last time was set up by a 56-yard pass from Otto Graham to Sherman Howard. Howard suffered a shoulder separation on the play and has not played since.

Two of the pro games are booked on television Sunday. The schedule:

Cleveland Browns at Washington Redskins—Dumont 2 p. m., for Columbus, Cincinnati, Dayton and Cleveland.

Philadelphia Eagles at Chicago Cardinals — ABC-TV and Dumont 2:30 to Dayton and Cincinnati.

AMERICA'S top money-winning jockey, Eddie Arcaro, and his wife are caught by the camera in New York on return from a five-week vacation tour of Europe. (International) in the opinion of their coach, the Lions were not only outshined in their ball handling but also were far off in their shooting.

AFTER CHECKING the charts of the game with the Bulldogs, Townsend said the Lions hit less than 20 percent of their shots from the field.

Their timing, too, he said was "way off" by comparison with that of the New Hollanders, for whom he had only the highest praise.

That comparison, however, was the basis for encouragement. Townsend pointed out that it showed how much better a team gets after it plays a few games or has more practice. "There's nothing like practice to smooth up passing and ball handling," he said.

The WHS coach also expressed confidence that the Lions' aim at the baskets would improve.

He admitted that it was Bob Alkire's long shots that kept them in the game and then added "we've got a couple more boys who are right good shots, too." He said Dick Tracey and Claude Smith had been hitting the hoops with consistency during practice and blamed "stage fright" for their failure to connect in the opener. Neither was in the starting lineup, but they did get in the game. However, they only took one shot apiece.

The Lion defense in that first game was not especially good, Townsend said, but he added that it was better than the offense.

He summed up the first game by saying "they just haven't played together long enough" and that was the background for the practice program.

He is counting heavily on the four veterans from last year to pull the team together. Wayne Van Meter and Jack Rettig are regarded as the offensive spearhead and

Greenberg Seeks New Tribe Talent

CLEVELAND, Nov. 29.—Hank Greenberg, Cleveland Indian general manager, says he'd "like to make a deal, but the prospects aren't very good." Back from a month's trip abroad, Greenberg continued:

"I was just looking over the Chicago White Sox roster. They have six players we could use. But in order to get one we would probably have to give up Early Wynn, Bob Lemon, Mike Garcia, Larry Doby or someone like that. If you want a front line player you must give one in return."

Trautman Slated For Loud Salute

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 29.—Phoenix Arizona druggstore cowboys, planning to slap a Western brand on the nation's two big baseball conventions opening here Monday, are oiling up their shooting irons.

They are going to greet George Trautman, minor league boss, with a rip-roaring rowdy welcome when he steps off the train in Phoenix Sunday. Western-garbed vigilantes from three municipal organizations, armed to the teeth with six guns and blank shells, will set off a thunderous demonstration at the station.

Marshall Added To Mid-Am Loop

GRANVILLE, Nov. 29.—The tough Mid-American Conference took on Marshall College of Huntington, W. Va., Friday night as its ninth member.

The West Virginia school had been actively seeking a berth in the league for nearly a year. Present conference members are Cincinnati, Miami, Ohio University, Bowling Green, Western Michigan, Toledo, Western Reserve and Kent State.

The first radio broadcast of a Michigan State football game was in 1923 from a phone booth anchored atop Macklin Field Stadium.

Apprentice Boy Is Hot Jockey

Bettors 'Got Well' Stricking With Him

By FRANK ECK
NEW YORK — (P)—The racing season is over in these parts but it will be some time before the fans forget Willie Lester. As a matter of fact, a lot of bettors "got well" wagering on Lester mounts during the last three months of the season.

The 20-year-old apprentice rider from Cass, W. Va., rode 61 winners during the final 92 racing days and his winners were spread over only two tracks—Saratoga and Jamaica.

Lester is the new darling of the two-dollar bettor and when he resumes riding on the Florida winter circuit he undoubtedly will attract many followers. Last winter, Jimmy Breckons was the sensational apprentice but now those who judge a jockey by the way he comes down the stretch predict Lester is the boy to watch.

THE FRECKLE-FACED kid, who rode his first winner (George W. W.) on August 1 at Saratoga, was the leading rider of the Empire-at-Jamaica meeting. He rode 29 winners during the 24-day session and beat out veteran Ted Atkinson for riding honors by five winners.

Lester, who is of English-French parentage although born in West Virginia, figures to be around for a long time for he is on the small side and makes 103 pounds handily.

Lester broke into the sport at 13 more out of necessity than anything. Being one of 12 children he figured it was about time he began helping support a large family and he went to the Charlestown, W. Va., track looking for a job. He wound up walking "hots"—horses that are to be cooled off after a race.

In the winter of 1945 he got a job at Worthington Valley, north of Baltimore. His chief task was galloping steeplechasers. When he broke two wrists he quit the jumps and went to work for Mrs. Dorothy M. Lee in Middleburg, Va. That's where Trainer Jimmy Smith, his present contract employer, spotted him. Smith, a great rider in his day and a trainer of many winners for the late E. R. Bradley, liked the way Lester broke in yearlings for Mrs. Lee and in the summer of 1948, Smith took Lester to Saratoga as a morning workout boy.

LESTER RODE ONLY one stake winner during his short time in the saddle. It came when he piloted William Ziegler's Quiz Song to victory in the recent Correction Handicap at Jamaica.

On the final day of the meeting he was up on the longest Grover B. He almost won the $55,600 Butler Handicap, coming from sixth position at the three-sixteenths pole to second at the wire. However, in his anxiety to triumph he permitted Grover B. to bear in during the stretch run which is a violation. As a result, Lester drew a 10-day suspension.

His one ambition now is a return to the saddle in the hopes of riding more winners so that he can buy a West Virginia farm for his mother.

It looks like he might get it for he will ride with a five-pound apprentice allowance until next August and his services will be in demand during the Tropical Park, Hialeah and Gulfstream meetings this winter.

Eastern Teams Holding Edge Over Westerners This Season

NEW YORK—If at the close of this screwy football season some guy comes up to you and says he'll take the Midwestern teams over the East, let him do just that. When he sits down to tally the score of the East versus West games he'll be in for a rude awakening.

The East beat the West 11 times and the West took the East only nine times this year. Two games ended in ties.

That's a pretty good score when you consider the West had going for its side a couple of clubs like Michigan State and Notre Dame. Michigan State had a perfect record intersectionally.

The Spartans beat two Eastern foes, Syracuse and Penn State, both hands, and took the measure of Far West Oregon State, 17-14, and Southwest Texas Aggies, 48-6.

Notre Dame tied Penn for the East, beat Navy, 17-6, but lost to Pitt, 22-19. No other Western team won more than one game from the East.

Pitt has been the East's big surprise, especially against the West. Lowell (Red) Dawson's Panthers, besides taking care of Notre Dame, turned back Indiana, 28-7, Ohio State, 21-14, and Iowa, 26-14. That ought to be enough to make Dawson "coach of the year," despite his losses to Oklahoma and West Virginia.

Including games of Nov. 15, the East and Far West split 18 games right down the center. Each section won eight games. There were two ties.

Against the South, the East fared

Chilean Birth Of Septuplets Labeled 'Hoax'

SANTIAGO, Nov. 29.—Police in Chile have announced that the reported birth of septuplets to a Chilean woman Thursday night was a "vulgar hoax."

The announcement of the fraud was made by Luis Salamaña, head of the fifth federal police section, the same police official who had told the newspaper El Mercurio that seven girls had been born to a woman Salamaña identified as Mrs. Carmen Molina.

The report of the births caused great excitement in the Chilean capital. All but one newspaper brought out banner headlines in extra editions to tell their readers the story. High government officials hurried to the clinic where the mother and her babies supposedly had been taken.

Angry newsmen who had spent the night in front of the clinic said they planned to protest to Chile's new president, Gen. Carlos Ibanez, because Salamaña both released the information as true and then denounced it.

Salamaña said the authors of the hoax had sought to gain publicity for a spring festival. They picked the figure seven to represent seven candidates for queen of the festival, he said.

Some newsmen said police aided the perpetrators of the hoax, which took in even Sen. Salvador Allende, president of the Chilean Medical College and vice president of the National Senate. Allende rushed to the hospital and told newsmen outside that only medical personnel would be allowed to see the "babies."

Health Department

hospital has been a very great help in providing good medical and nursing care for mothers, especially during and after delivery. Very few children are born in the home.

"The department's infant program might be described as one of health supervision of the infant.
This includes the discovery and treatment of abnormalities. The nurse follows through to see that abnormalities are corrected or treated.

"Our preschool program which must have attention is essentially the same as the infant. It might be described again as health supervision by way of medical examination, home nursing visit, and follow-up service.

"THE SCHOOL PROGRAM has the same objective as that for the infant and preschool, health supervision of the school child. This program, however, is much more extensive than the preceding and includes such items as physical examination, immunization, home nursing visits, and screening programs such as hearing testing, vision testing, dental survey, X-ray survey, heart survey and physical inspections. The nurses again follow-through to see that abnormalities are corrected or treated.

"Crippled children's services could be summarized under four subdivisions: case finding, diagno-
vision. Here again the follow-up service is to see that the child receives and continues treatment, frequently for months and years,
is very important.

"Chronic diseases become increasingly important as life is prolonged and our population grows older. The three chronic diseases with which the health department largely concerns itself are cancer, heart and sugar diabetes. Here again the emphasis is placed upon case finding early so that patient may be more effectively treated.
One of the very interesting features of the program is the heart clinic for children.

"THE HEALTH department attempts to use the services that are available locally and in Columbus for persons needing diagnosis and treatment of mental and nervous conditions, therefore community mental health becomes a departmental matter for considerable attention. Public health education also is in the general picture. Probably the whole health program has educational significance. The best way to educate people about tuberculosis is to find tuberculosis cases and get them under treatment in a sanatorium. The best way to educate people to the value of immunization and vaccination is to immunize and vaccinate.

"MOST OF THE subdivisions of health education, such as public lectures, film showing, classroom talks, newspaper releases and radio programs are utilized by the local health department. Monthly staff meetings have been scheduled, beginning Dec. 5, with specialists from the State Department of Health, discussing various features of the public health program.
"The laboratory service includes a great variety of tests having to do with diagnosis of communicable diseases, venereal disease, tuberculosis, clinical tests and sanitation.

"Sanitation is a much more extensive program than the general public realizes. All meat sold at retail in Fayette County must be inspected by licensed veterinarian.
Much of the sanitation program has to do with control of communicable disease. The activities of the sanitation department are very numerous and include such items as the following: water, sewage, garbage, trash, nuisance complaints, schools, camps, swimming pool, rodent control, insect control, housing, industrial hygiene, food and milk.

"Records and vital statistics are very important subdivisions of the public health program. The duties of the clerk are many and varied.
The following are only a few: records of all the activities of the health department staff; births and deaths; receipts and expenditures of the department; preparation of the annual budget; quarterly financial reports to the state department; issuance of certified copies of birth and death certificates, etc."

CIO Delegates Face Battle On New Chieftain

ATLANTIC CITY, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Delegates to the 14th CIO convention gathered here Friday for a showdown on the selection of a new president.

The task of picking a new chief to fill the post left vacant by the death of Philip Murray might lead to an open and public fight. Since early this week, top CIO leaders have been meeting in New York and Washington in an attempt to make a choice.

So far, they have reportedly remained deadlocked. The only avowed contenders for the organization's top spot are Walter P. Reuther, president of the auto workers, and Allan S. Haywood, who has the support of the steel workers union.

High CIO officials were to meet in executive session Friday afternoon to continue their earlier talks. Among them will be nine vice presidents and Secretary-Treasurer James B. Carey.

The actual convention, which lasts a week, doesn't get underway until Monday. And a busy week it will be, with many prominent speakers scheduled to appear.

But the selection of the new president will overshadow all other convention proceedings. Reports have circulated that Reuther would be willing to carry his fight for the post to the convention floor if he was fairly sure of victory.

Haywood's major strength, the million-member steel workers union, gave no indication of weakening. Some small unions are reported supporting Haywood.

LEAVING a note explaining, "I am not sure that I am capable of taking on these added responsibilities," Robert J. Lascelles, 58-year-old vice president of the Pullman company, apparently shot and killed himself in Chicago. Lascelles was promoted in September from secretary-treasurer to comptroller of the company. (International)

MRS. ELIZABETH KUGEL, of Newportville, Bucks County, Pa., tells Bristol Township Patrolman Bentley Chapin how the two youngest of her three children locked themselves inside a refrigerator and suffocated. The youngsters, Kenneth, 3, and Joanne, 7, were alone in their home at the time. (International Soundphotos)

Robert Cannon Dies Suddenly Early Saturday

Heart Attack Ends Life Of Leading Farm Operator

Robert Cannon, 43 prominent resident of Milledgeville and former mayor of that village for 10 years, died suddenly at his home at 6:15 A. M. Saturday of a heart attack.

His death came as a shock to relatives and friends alike.

Mr. Cannon was one of the best known residents in Fayette County.

A native of Jefferson Township, he attended school at Jeffersonville, and had long been known as a show corn producer and exhibitor. For many years his displays had carried off many top awards wherever shown.

He had operated the Barnes Farm near Milledgeville for many years.

For several years he was superintendent in charge of the agricultural and horticultural building at the Ohio State Fair.

He was also a member of the Fayette County Fair Board; a Jasper Township trustee; member of council at Milledgeville; member of the Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters lodges in Jeffersonville; member of the Eagles Lodge here, Marshall Grange at Jeffersonville and the Jeffersonville Methodist Church.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Pauline Allen Cannon; one son, Robert at home; a grandson, Steven; two sisters, Mrs. Louis Ulen of St. Louis, Mo., and Mrs. Lawrence Grim of Mt. Sterling; his mother, Mrs. Grace Cannon of the State Road and one brother, John U. Cannon of Paint Township.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 P. M. at the Alvin G. Little Funeral Home in Jeffersonville. Burial is to be in Fairview Cemetery near Jeffersonville.

Rev. Ancil Arnold, pastor of the Milledgeville Methodist Church, will conduct the services.

Friends may call at the funeral home at any time.

Drivers Arrested Here On Friday

Robert E. Lee, 22, Xenia, was taken into custody on route 35 after being chased from the city to the Chaffin School House Friday night. He was charged with driving while intoxicated. He was locked up for appearance in municipal court later.

Max E. Kincaid, Wilmington, for driving 55 miles an hour on Leesburg Avenue, was picked up and posted $20 bond.

Chester Arthur Bryan, 55, is facing a charge of permitting Harold Penwell to gamble in his place of business, known as Chet's Place, by playing rum for a wager of 25 cents.

The charge was filed by Homer Penwell, father of Harold Penwell, police said.

Mercury Reaches Another New Low

For the second morning in succession the temperature set a new low record for the season to date Saturday, when 12 degrees above zero was recorded.

The 12 above zero was two degrees lower than the record of 14 Friday morning.

At no time Friday did the mercury reach above 30 degrees, compared with 52 for the peak and 22 for the low mark on the same date a year ago.

Rain and snow and a low of about 25 is the forecast for over Saturday night and Sunday.

WHY go to court?

Damage suits based on injury claimed by persons who say they fell, were hit or in some other way accidentally injured on or about your premises are better settled out of court. The insurance that protects you also provides expert handling of such claims. We write insurance to fit your specific needs.

Let's talk it over.

Skills of Scouts Are Put to Test

'Air Crash Rescue' Marks All-Day Event

Boy Scouts of Fayette County had a chance to show the skills they had learned in Scout work at "Operation Air Crash Rescue" held Friday at the Ray French farm four miles east of Washington C. H.

Operation Air Crash Rescue was an all-day event and it actually gave the Scouts a challenge in putting their Scouting skills to such use as crossing a rope bridge hand over hand, running air-sea rescue missions by patrol relay, following winding trails, using Scout trail signs and the magnetic compass and rifle firing on the range.

Thirty-five Scouts and Explorers of the county attended the affair which was highlighted by the rescue event. Each Scout cooked his own meal at noon. A wiener roast and campfire in the evening, which consisted of patrol skits, songs and presentation of awards, closed the event.

Present at the affair were Troop 67 of Jeffersonville with Scoutmaster Clyde Rings and Observer Even Bryden; Troop 22 of Waterloo with leaders Beecher Ingram, Louis Ford and Irvin Funk; Troop 222 of the Washington C. H. Lions Club with Scoutmaster Ray French and Observers Bill Parrett, Bob Morehouse, Luke Musser, John Fent and Charles McCoy, and Post 303 of the Washington C. H. First Presbyterian Church with advisor John Lodwick and Observers Jim Schwartz and Loren Noble.

The winners of the rescue event were Shawnee Crew of Post 303 and Flaming Arrow Patrol of Troop 67. Both of the outfits received an excellent rating.

A red ribbon for standard rating was received by all of the other Patrols.

Each Scout that participated in the events during the day received a liberty bell neckerchief slide.

District Scout Meeting Monday

A district meeting of the Fayette County Scout leaders and advisors will be held Monday evening at the First Presbyterian Church.

The group will be divided up into three study periods for the different phases of Scouting.

A round table discussion for Cub and Boy Scout leaders will be held. Parents of new Cub Scouts are to meet, too, and have a training session and the district committee of the county will meet to plan the Scout program for the month of December.

Benefit Show Planned Again

Jim Chakeres is going to open the doors of the State Theater here again this Christmas season to those who want to make Christmas a little brighter for the less fortunate.

The only ticket needed to get into the theater on Dec. 17 and 18 will be clothing, toys or non-perishable food.

The Christmas benefit show is not new; Chakeres said he was making it an annual event because "holiday time is happiness time when the spirit of giving will give the giver a glow of satisfaction as well as make a better Christmas for needy families."

Everything that is contributed at the benefit shows is to be distributed to families who have met with reverses or are unable themselves to make Christmas the happy time of year it is supposed to be.

The distribution, Chakeres said, would be handled through the Methodist Church and Eagles lodge. These two, he said, will be in a better position to know the needy and at the same time avoid duplications.

Final Tribute Paid To W. Dean Burris

Final tributes were paid to William Dean Burris at funeral services conducted by Rev. Clinton Swengel, pastor of Grace Church, at the Gerstner Funeral Home at 2 P. M. Tuesday.

The minister read the Scripture, offered prayer and delivered the funeral sermon and memorial and read the hymn, "The Old Rugged Cross."

Old friends and relatives who had come to pay their last respects to the man who had spent so many years here filled the funeral home. Floral remembrances banked the casket.

The pallbearers for the interment in the Sabina Cemetery were Jess and Harry Todd, Frank E. Ellis, Charles Gray, Ira Taylor and Charles Crawford.

Red Cross In Need Of Mattress At Once

A mattress for a hospital bed is badly needed according to Mrs. Violet Cahall of the Fayette County Red Cross who explained, "We have received a call for an extra mattress for a patient who was able to obtain a hospital bed but not a mattress. This person is permanently bed-ridden and the hospital bed will make confinement much more comfortable and also greatly ease the job of caring for the patient."

Mrs. Cahall, Red Cross secretary, says that if any person has a mattress available or can supply one, to please call her, phone 22401. The mattress will not be returnable.

Cherry Hill PTA To Hear Dental Talks

Miss Gretchen Darlington, head nurse of the Health Department here, is to give a talk on dental nutrition, and Dr. Richard Wills of Columbus is to lecture on dental X-rays and their values at next Tuesday night's meeting of the Cherry Hill Parent-Teacher Association.

Mrs. Robert Miller, in making the announcement of the program, said the meeting would be opened with the invocation by Rev. Russell Knisley, pastor of the Church of Christ in Christian Union, and that a special chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Crosswhite, would sing several selections.

The program was arranged by a committee headed by Mrs. Billie Wilson. The other members are Mr. and Mrs. John Rhoads, Mr. and Mrs. E. Wayne Titus and Miss Jane Durant.

Robert Lisk is the PTA president.

The meeting is to be called to order for a business session at 7:30 P. M. After that will come the program. It will wind up with refreshments and a social get-together. On the refreshment committee are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sanderson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sheridan, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mann, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Woodyard and Miss Iris Noble.

him a new trial Friday.

A common pleas court jury convicted him of shooting into the apartment of Mrs. Helen Ponti, who was then employed in Zollar's office. No one was hurt.

David W. Ferneau Dies in Lakewood

David W. Ferneau, 60, who became almost a nationwide authority on eggs and egg marketing after starting with the old Brownell Packing Co. here, died at his home, 1574 Marlow Avenue, in Lakewood, early Friday, following five years of failing health.

Although his condition had been considered serious for more than a month, word of his death was received as a shock to even some of his close old friends here.

During his long association with the Brownell Co., he made many friends throughout Fayette County as well as in Washington C. H.

He left here 20 years ago to go with the Farm Bureau Co-op in Columbus and Cleveland and soon became recognized as an authority in the complex egg packing, marketing and storage business.

About five years ago, he left the Farm Bureau Co-op to go with the Federated Egg Co-op in Cleveland. In his position he traveled considerably, going to the big egg marketing centers.

He was a native of Washington C. H. and has a fairly large family connection here.

Of his immediate family, however, he is survived by his widow; three daughters, Mrs. Alice Hoffman of Toledo and Mrs. Jane Rose and Mrs. Carolyn Jones of Cleveland.
